O who will walk a mile with me along life's merry way?

*O who will walk a mile with me along life's merry way?
A comrade blithe and full of glee, who dares to laugh out loud and free.*

Like a happy child, through the flowers gay that fill the field and fringe the way.

Where he walks a mile with me.

*And who will walk a mile with me along life's weary way?
A friend whose heart has eyes to see the stars shine out o'er the darkening sea*

*And the quiet rest at the end of the day, —
A friend who knows, and dares to say, the brave, sweet words that cheer the way*

Where he walks a mile with me.

*With such a comrade, such a friend
I feign would walk till journey's end*

Through summer sunshine, winter rain

And then? — Farewell, we shall meet again!

— Henry Van Dyke

In Memoriam — Timothy Enaire (1966-1980)

The Tears of the Harlequin

To you he gave his laughter and his jest,
His words that of all words were merriest,
His glad, mad moments when the lights flared high
And his wild song outshrilled the plaudits' din.
For you that memory, but happier I —
I, who have known the tears of the Harlequin.

Not mine those moments, when the roses lay
Like red spilled wine on his triumphant way,
And shouts acclaimed him through the music's beat,
Above the voice of flute and violin.
But I have known his hour of sure defeat —
I — I have known the tears out the Harlequin . . .

Just A Few Words To Say

It's very easy to forget that there is a "real world" outside of our school because of the protected and routine lives that we live. However, this year our world was invaded, and we got an unforgettable taste of the "real world." The war in Lebanon is just one example.

We all felt the horrors of the war when our friend and citizen Sean Gallagher was killed in Lebanon. Sean had just graduated from our school in 1979.

Another example was the teachers' contract dispute. No one thought that North Andover High School teachers would be forced to picket the school as all those other teachers we saw on the news did. We really felt their anger when they decided not to participate in any extra-curricular activity. However, most of us agreed that the teachers deserved a fair contract.

Through it all we learned and matured.

With the bad, however, came plenty of good. North Andover's sports were tops. Our class found its best personalities (who can forget Jeff Smeltzer's morning announcements) and we, from a scattered group of people in the same grade, became one class — a whole.

We will never forget North Andover High, not because of the good or bad times we had here, but because of the friends we made here.

You've made it Class of 1984.
